

Contships

Contship Fun

Contships was established in 2015, by Nikolas D. Pateras, and has since grown into the leading global tonnage provider of container feeder vessels between 900-1500TEU through the strong and steadfast support from its stakeholders.

Contships has acquired 56 container vessels since 2015 and currently operates 48 vessels which are deployed globally in the intra-regional trade lanes and form an integral part of the global logistics supply chain.

Contships' investment strategy is based on the conviction of the key role held by feeders as the “first and last marine mile” in the container shipping supply chain which is a testimony to their strong demand.

Contships will continue to focus on the container feeder sector adding value to its customers and shareholders.

Contships offers a unique investment proposition, with experienced management and strong execution capabilities providing consistent returns throughout the cycles with moderate financial risk and significant upside potential.

Contships Serving the Global Logistics Supply Chain

Contships' feeders are chartered out on time-charter contracts to the major liner companies and regional carriers and are deployed on intra-regional trades and regional lanes across the world, distributing containers to and from smaller ports as well as major hub ports and terminals.

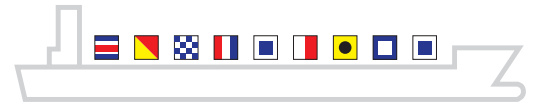

Feeders are the backbone of the container global logistics supply chain, holding a key role in serving the “first and last marine mile”.

Feeders form an integral part of the “hub and spoke system” due to a number of key factors, such as, port infrastructure, berth size limitations, cargo volumes and provide operational flexibilities and synergies supporting main lane services by connecting ports with inter-continental shipping lanes with one or more smaller ports, which are not serviced by the main lane vessels.

First and Last Marine Mile

Contships' Customers

Contships has established an excellent track record with the world's leading container feeder charterers offering them reliable services by providing high quality container feeder ships.
